Mr. J. Davis has mounted his gasoline wood sawing machine on trucks and is now cutting stove wood for the neighboring farmers. Next week he intends moving his outfit down to the Lone Pine district where he will continue his operations.

Miss Susie Kedward and Mr. Jas Prowse attended the entertainment given by the Kenny-Harvey Concert Co. in the Opera House at Innisfail on Tuesday night.

On Friday afternoon, Mr. Wm Hiltz gave an eloquent and most instructive public lecture on "Mixed Farming" in the school, before an appreciative audience. At the close of his address the lecturer freely and adequately answered any questions.

Rev. F. E. Davies spoke on Sunday evening in the Methodist church before a large, interesting audience on church union. In a clear, specific way he outlined the history of the movement and argued very strongly for union. The church orchestra played several nice selections, and Mr. Hunter and Mrs. Davies sang a charming duet.

Bowden is to lose some of its prestige as a freighting centre for the Rocky Mountain House and the Brazeau. The store keepers and the Brazeau Collieries have agreed that after this week all their goods shall be freighted from Red Deer. The loss of this business will be severely felt by Bowden, and it is hard to understand why the Brewster Brothers have selected Red Deer as a distributing point instead of Bowden as the roads and trails from Bowden to the Rocky Mt. House are infinitely better than those from Red Deer.

SPECIAL MEETING

The Village Council held a special meeting in the Secretary's office on Monday the 19th Feb. at 8 p.m. all the councillors being present.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering and dealing with the rowdism which has been prevalent in the village of late, complaints having been made that certain parties from outside points had been making a practise of meeting in Bowden and holding periodical carousals which owing to lack of police protection they have been able to do without check. The council duly appointed two constables vested with authority to carry out the provisions of the various ordinances abused.

EVERYONE APPROVES

The action of the council on Wednesday evening in the appointment of constables for the town is one that will meet with the favor of a large majority of ratesayers who like law and order. Since last mid-summer revelries which have lasted well on towards early morning has disturbed the peace of the town and the majority of the citizens were beginning to wonder what action would be taken by the council. The chief actors in these carousals as a rule are travellers who represent well known Calgary houses, and secure in the knowledge that there will be no interference on the part of any constable or police they proceeded to "run the town."

In future a change can be expected as the council have determined to suppress all such misconduct and the men installed as officers will see that the perpetrators are apprehended.

A SUGGESTION

When the council start the erection of the much needed fire hall is not the idea of having a couple of cells also constructed in the building worth their consideration? Now that the town has police protection where will the officers of the law "get off at" if they find it necessary to make any arrests? Unless they chain their prisoners up to a post or take them home with them there is at present no building that could be used as a place of confinement until a hearing could be given. At little extra cost a couple of good cells could be constructed in the proposed fire hall and as the building will be heated all winter no better place for use as a jail the year around could be secured in Bowden.

Without a jail the determination of the council to stop rowdism in Bowden is much hampered. An intoxicated man, who by his misconduct has merited the attention of the police will not as a rule desist in his disturbances even when ordered to do so by those in authority. Their commands only incite the debauchee's anger and a determination to show them that he can "do as he likes" usually follows with a very choice vocabulary of loud profanity.

When such an explosion occurs an officer at present is powerless to silence the disgraceful talk, as it is impossible to tie a man's tongue. The knowledge, to the culprit that on the morrow a fine will be assessed has no weight. The only way to curb his speech is by immediate confinement.

OLDS.

Herb Simmons and H. H. Cheeseman are in Calgary this week.

The entertainment given in the Opera Tuesday night under the auspices of the English Church was a great success financially as well as an entertainment.

We understand the C. P. R. have purchased the gravel pit 2 miles south west of Olds and will build a spur out there at once.

The warm weather of the past six weeks has rather kept the skating rink on the defenciae but the ice in the curling rink being a thick er sheet and in the shade has not suffered so much and with the exception of a few nights the curling has been good and judging from the interest taken should be the leading sport next winter.

Olds defeated Waterside 4 to 2 in an interesting hockey match Mon. night. There was some pretty close checking at times and the ice or lack of ice around the north and east walls made Stanley cup hockey almost impossible.

Where the Good Ones Were Put
One of Uncle Sam's bright young men attached to the embassy at London tells of a cab driver he met in that town who was evidently of the opinion that there is no better motto than "A place for everything, and everything in its place."

On one occasion as he swung down the Strand a visitor from this country asked him to point out the places of interest. In a moment the driver said:

"There, sir, is Kuglit Hill, where they hangs 'em."

Then a little later he added: "There's Parliament 'Ouses, where they makes the laws and does it across the way. An' there's Westminster Abbey, where they buries the good 'uns that didn't get 'anged."

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

ONE SINGLE PILL GAVE GREAT RELIEF

FOUR BOXES CURED HIM

Plessisville, Que.
"I suffered from Kidney Trouble for several years, and tried numerous remedies and doctors' prescriptions without permanent relief, my case being chronic. After seeing about Gin Pills, and as it is a well known fact Juniper without alcohol is excellent for the Kidneys, I decided to try Gin Pills. One single pill gave me great relief. I have now taken almost four boxes of Gin Pills and find myself completely cured. No more bad humor—Increase in weight—clear eyes—fresh color—more strength and vigor. This is what Gin Pills have done for me."

'MARVELOUS' CURES OF SKIN ERUPTION

Four Children Constantly Scratching.
Nearly Tore Limbs Off. Cured in a Month by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

"Two of my daughters and two of my sons were suffering from very bad hives, the doctor ordering my daughters to have all their hair cut off so as to prevent it from spreading all over their heads, and to get to the seat of the trouble in order to be able to rub some ointment, which he gave them, well into the sores. These sores started in small blotches which got larger and larger and then burst and spread all over their heads, and in some cases down their backs and bodies. The doctor said it was eczema, but they seemed to be daily getting worse. The sores formed like little boils, then filled with matter, and looked like abscesses. They became all inflamed and irritated, causing them to be constantly scratching themselves. This made the sores burst, and the matter flowed all over their heads. We had to cut their finger nails and at times to put gloves on their hands. The irritation was so bad, to keep them from digging into the flesh, and at night they would nearly tear their limbs off. The bolsters would be literally covered with blood."

"The teachers would not let them attend school for fear of infection spreading among the other children, so I resolved to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I found to benefit my children greatly. I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for one month, and the result is a marvelous cure." (Signed) George Arthur Robinson, 27, Fitzwilliam St., Hoyland Common, nr. Barnsley, Yorks, Eng., Jan. 9, 1911.
Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin will be sent free, on application to Potter D. & C. Corp., 46 Columbus Ave., Boston, U. S. A.

BABY'S HEALTH IN WINTER

During the winter months the mother finds it very difficult to keep her little ones well. Colds come on quickly and the discomfort to the baby affects the whole household. To keep baby well during the winter he should be warmly clothed, have a daily bath, lots of fresh air, and Baby's Own Tablets should be given him occasionally to keep his little bowels working regularly, as nothing will bring on colds so quickly as a clogged condition of the bowels. Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine a mother can give her little ones. They break up colds, cure constipation and indigestion, expel worms and make baby bright and happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Cook's Feat

A woman instructor at Wellesley college who presides over one of the dining tables at which sit a dozen students, says that one morning some surly lettuce was brought on.

A freshman looked at it, then exclaimed:

"How clever of the cook to crimp it that way! I wonder how she does it?"

Some modern cities built all at once, complete and ready for occupancy, have been successes, but the Port of Heungchow, laid out in the spring of 1909, on the shore of Yehli Bay, ten miles from Macao Harbor, China, has failed to become a rival of Macao and Hong-Kong, as was hoped. Despite its telephones, water works, light and street car service, and other up-to-date features, its population is only 2,000.

There are about 16 deaths for every birth occurring at sea.

Blood is Like Water

When Lips Are Pallid and the Gums Lose Their Color

You Can Make the Blood Rich and Red by Using

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

If you find yourself easily tired, lacking in vigor and energy, unable to properly digest the food you eat and generally out of sorts, look in the mirror and carefully examine the lips, gums and eyelids. If color is lacking you may be sure that you are anemic—that your blood is thin, weak and watery.

It would be a mistake, under these circumstances, to use purging medicines; what you need is more blood—richer blood—and you can increase the amount of rich, red blood in the body by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Not in any miraculous way does this treatment work, but just as naturally as do any of the laws of nature. It supplies to the body the elements which go to the formation of new, rich blood. These are found in condensed and easily assimilated form in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and therefore do not bother even the weakest stomach.

It will take a little patience and perseverance to thoroughly restore the system, but by noting your increase of weight and the return of color to your faded complexion you will be convinced that the lost vigor and vitality is being restored to your system.

Bluffed It Out

The stories of the embarrassment of unsophisticated diners when faced with highly unsophisticated menu cards are endless and usually amusing. A man whose career had confined his knowledge of things to eat to such standard products as ham and eggs and pork and beans found himself among a company who ordered intelligently from an extensive bill of fare. It contains so many classified dishes that it makes a fair-sized book, the pages of which he pawed aimlessly and in dismay. The waiter, who needed only his order to go to the kitchen was standing at one side deferentially, with his order slip and pencil in hand. The delay was noticeable and irritating to the unskilled diner, and finally he pointed blindly to the middle of the page with his finger.

"Give me some of that," he said. The waiter looked over his shoulder and remarked:—
"That's Mayonnaise dressing, sir."
"I know it, I can read."
"But," apologetically, "what will you have it on?"
"On a plate, you bonehead. Do you feed your customers in troughs here?"

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

Only One Who Knew

A little boy who had just joined the Anglican Sunday School was asked by his mother how he liked it. "Why!" exclaimed Charlie, "they don't know much! The teacher asked what was the Collect, and I was the only one who knew."
"And what did you say, dear?"
"Why, I told them pretty quick that it was a pain in the stomach."

MARSHALL SAUNDERS The Popular Canadian Author.

If the temperature of an author's popularity can be measured by the thermometer of sales, then surely the most popular writer in Canada is Miss Marshall Saunders, whose "Beautiful Joe" has sold 400,000 copies, and been translated into Swedish, German and Japanese.

At her grandfather's house in Milton, Nova Scotia, Miss Saunders was born in 1861, the daughter of a clergyman, and a descendant of the John Alden immortalized in verse by Longfellow. Her early days were spent in the beautiful land of Evangeline where the very air seems redolent of romance and historic memories. When she was six the family moved to Halifax, and there she received the foundation of her education in private and public schools until fifteen, when she was sent to a boarding school in Scotland and thence to France to put some finishing touches to her education.

On her return to Nova Scotia she taught school for a time and then drifted into literature. Her first short story brought forty dollars, but she soon realized that real success could not be plucked like a rose in a garden; she must pay the price in years of observation, study, training and practice. She spent several years in foreign travel, as a post-graduate course in experience, and then returned to Nova Scotia, ready for the serious work of her life.

In 1894 the American Humane Educational Society offered a prize of $200 for the best story illustrating kindness to dumb animals. Miss Saunders determined to compete for it. She spent six months in writing a story, the background of which was largely autobiographic and the spirit pervading it her own intense love for animals, the silent appeal of their helplessness finding ever a sympathetic echo in her heart. The committee of award in giving the prize to her book "Beautiful Joe," said: "the author has genius, heart and insight. It is an admirable story and should have an immense sale and become a standard for all libraries," and yet this sweet, sympathetic story of dog life, despite its splendid endorsement, went begging among the publishers for six months before it was accepted, Miss Saunders having availed herself of the privilege of forfeiting the prize money and retaining her manuscript.

When published, it gave her a place in the very front rank of writers of animal stories. Her "Tilda Jane," a simple, natural, pathetic yet humorous story, adds a new character to the charming literature of childhood. In her ambitious novel "Rose a Charlotte," she gives a delightful portrayal of the life of the Acadians in the historic country around St. Mary's Bay, a realm of idyllic romance, where trials and sorrows seemed to sanctify and purify the people to higher things.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1913, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

Stock Shipping Regulations

From reports which have come to hand, it appears that practically all the live stock interests of Canada were represented at the meeting held in Toronto to discuss the New Proposed Live Stock Shipping Contract, except the one most directly concerned in it, namely the shippers themselves.

There were delegates representing Stock Breeders Associations, Fairs Associations, Boards of Trade Manufacturers Associations and Government Officials, but from Alberta alone was there a delegate who carried credentials from the body of stock shippers and even here the organization is as yet only temporary.

The situation is anomalous and difficult to explain. Alberta shippers, like most Alberta men are live wires and they got together and expressed their views just as soon as they were advised of what was doing, but their work is not yet done. It is evident that the entire subject of shipping live stock is about to be investigated. A set of regulations governing live stock shipments has been submitted to the Board of Railway Commissioners by the Live Stock Commissioner at Ottawa for approval. The Railway Companies reply that these are not needed that the service they are now giving the shippers is good enough and in their own interest they have submitted for approval this New Live Stock Shipping Contract, in which they endeavor to get the shippers to release them from responsibility for almost every conceivable kind of accident, no matter who may have been the cause of it.

Another important feature of this Contract is the one making it the duty of the shipper to explain to the man he sends in charge of his stock that in case the attendant is injured he cannot collect from the company no matter how the injury occurred and if the shipper fails to do this and fails to get the attendant to sign a contract releasing the company from all responsibility for his safety, then the shipper is himself liable for any claims for damages that may arise should the atten-

CHAPTER VIII. Beauty in Distress

So the mystery of the Clavels was solved.

So thought Harry as he came down from the church on the hill, ignoring utterly the fact that for him the problem had only been opened, and he was no nearer understanding the true facts of the case than he was an hour ago.

Nevertheless what he had heard moved and interested him profoundly. For this Roger, of whom he had learned so horrible a record, was in life his first cousin, son of his father's brother. He felt almost glad that his father was dead, so that the knowledge of his family's disgrace could not come to him. In his recollection his father remained a fascinating figure, dark-eyed, impetuous and restless, always anxious to embark on an undertaking that involved risk to life, passionately attached to his beautiful wife, but silent and bored in the fashionable society she so loved, and which he avoided whenever it was possible.

Once he had spoken to his son of a brother Alan, whom he termed "something of a milkop," and of his sister Marion, "the better boy of the two" he had called her. Was Marion also dead, Harry wondered. If living she had probably changed her name, since all agreed in the statement that there were no more Clavels.

It was not a good name to revive, as reflected, as he walked slowly along the road which led out of the village. How could a man live at Lyllyngton Court with that terrible inscription in Crayborne churchyard within a few miles of him?

At any moment in his wanderings in the neighborhood he might chance to meet poor distraught Jenny Collett, laughing and weeping as she had done since her young husband was murdered. Or at night the pathetic figure of Lady Anne Daubeney might pass him on the lonely roads with a curse on her lips against the name of Clavel.

It seemed strange to Harry that she should have continued to live in a neighborhood full of such horrible associations. Yet since the report of these tragedies must have filled the newspapers at the time and drawn, as Harry had already been told, numbers of excursionists to the spot where the crimes took place, it would perhaps be easier for her to remain where she was known and respected than to face a critical world outside.

Was Denzil Warden, the murdered Lucian's father, still living at Vale House? The sexton had told him that Mr. Warden's bitterness on the subject of his loss was as intense as ever. For a year, until the body of Roger Clavel was discovered, he had gone on raising the reward and covering every dead wall in the neighborhood with close descriptions of the missing Roger's appearance. He was a widower, for his wife had fretted herself to death, and his whole heart had been centred in her and his son. He had been willing, so the sexton said, to adopt Lady Anne after her bridegroom's death, but she had refused his offer.

Harry gave the old man a sovereign for his story, and asked no more questions, save one.

In what direction did Lodgers Abbey lie?

The sexton walked with him outside the church porch and pointed to what looked like a small forest less than a mile from the village.

"Lodgers Abbey's there," he said.

As he walked, Harry's imagination conjured up the place and dwelt upon the life that "tall white lily" must lead, as she herself had said "among the shadows."

"Who was the mysterious weapon lady," at whose presence within the abbey precincts the sexton had hinted, but whom no one ever saw except the foreign maids and the gardener and the priest from Seacombe?

And Stephen Jessop, the agent, who had "loved the Clavels" and had been paralyzed by the news of the tragedy, did he, too, pass his crippled life at Lodgers Abbey?

What saddening company for a young woman. Small wonder she had spoken of Crayborne as a "place to dream in and to die in."

Harry longed to continue his walk in the direction of Lady Anne's home. But delicacy restrained him. Now that he knew so much of the sorrow which had spoiled her life he could not force his society upon her or appear to be spying upon her movements. A little later he was resolved that he would at least approach the little wood within which she was hiding from the eyes of the world her pale beauty and her matchless grace. But for the present he must confine himself to exploring Crayborne and Lyllyngton Court.

He had gleaned from the sexton's talk that his grandfather, Sir John Clavel, and his uncle Alan after him had been baronets. Then he, too, would be, he supposed, Sir Henry Clavel, and his mother's wish would be fulfilled. To inform her of the fact was out of the question. There was very much to do and to learn before he could put in any claim to the title, and as for the estates, he knew so far nothing of the arrangements made beyond the sexton's word that Lodgers Abbey belonged to the Clavels and that Lady Anne Daubeney rented it from "the trustees."

Harry's discoveries had not removed him from his resolve to claim the land of his ancestors if the law could clearly be proved to be on his side. Already the tranquillity of this Dorsetshire country had struck an echoing note in his heart, and he loved it as he had never loved the luxuriant modern houses in which he had been reared. A glow of the tenderest admiration, and even, it seemed, of inherited recollection came over him as his footsteps led him to the stone bridge of Crayborne, built across the little River Cray in "the spacious days of great Elizabeth," and still as firm and durable as in the period of ruffs and farthingales.

On that bridge James Collet had engaged in his death struggle with Roger Clavel, and, leaning on its low parapet, Harry could study, at a distance of a few dozen yards, all that was left of the manor house which was the Clavel's old home.

Ivy hung about the tall, red brick chimney stacks, and an aged vine clambered over the house-side. The wide, square windows, set with tiny panes, which had been placed there in Tudor times, still remained untouched, and the great barns, roofed with thatch, and lighted with small round windows set in the stone.

One wing alone of the mansion remained, yet even that formed a house of importance, which caught the eye for a long distance from the neighboring railway line by the dignified old-world beauty of its gabled front, and the mellow red and grey and yellow and moss-green of its coloring.

Under the trees in the meadows all around cows were resting in the sun or steadily munching at the long grass. The very haystacks and outhouses of the place helped the scene by their massive size and warm tints, and it seemed to Harry as he gazed that he could recall boyish triumph when he had climbed trees in the orchard beyond the farm for red-cheeked apples or swarmed down the haystacks with a shout of joy.

Suddenly upon his wandering fancies there broke in a note of actual life, and indeed of very pressing emergency. Toward the bridge, at a tremendous pace, a horse was tearing, with flying reins and a rider crouched low upon his neck.

Harry watched the approaching figure closely for a couple of seconds, nervously himself for the encounter. Then as the horse sprang upon the bridge with a thundering noise of hoofs and a great cloud of dust kicked up from the road, Harry darted to front of it and hung with all his might upon the bridle.

Checked for a moment by the suddenness and strength of Harry's attack, the horse halted with wide staring eyes and distended nostrils. The next he would have rushed off again, but that Harry had him well in hand and soothed and quieted him with his voice, as he restrained his flight. Covered with foam and trembling, the animal at length realized that he was in the hands of a master and a friend, and relapsed into quiet so that Harry was able to turn his attention to the rider.

She was a very small lady in a black riding habit, and as Harry held out his arms to lift her down from where she crouched upon the horse's back she broke into a tearful laugh and sobbed out—

"That was splendid! I nearly broke my neck!" I think you had better come off and have a rest," he suggested.

"Why should I?" she asked faintly. "I am perfectly all right—enjoyed it immensely—please give me the reins—must be getting home—"

With that she fell off the side of the horse in a heap into Harry's arms.

He was so intensely pleased that he could hardly be sorry for her fainting fit. Her hat had slipped off and he recognized the small, delicate-featured face and lustrous dark hair of the young English actress he had met at

Mrs. Clumber's supper party, Miss Lily Warren.

She was so thin and light that she was an easy weight to carry. He held her clasped in one arm, and with his disengaged hand he led the horse by the bridle to the gate of the Manor House Farm.

It was necessary to pass through the farm yard to reach the house, and Harry gave the trembling, but pacified horse into the care of a man who came out of the stables to stare at him, and learned from him that the "missis" name was Mrs. Anning, and that she was to be found in the dairy at the back of the house, which had one story only under the vast roof. Five great Tudor windows lighted it, three above and two below, one on each side of the porch of brick and some mouldings which projected from the building under a deep gable. Above the door Harry perceived a round stone ornament, and it was not until, with his burden in his arm, he was about to pass under it, that he deciphered in the moss-grown, modelling, a replica of the arms he wore engraved on his father's signet ring—a mailed arm upraised, lance in hand, in the act of striking, and the motto: "Forward, Clavel!"

The oddness of the coincidence occurred to the young man. Almost the last words Lily Warren had said to him when they had parted four months ago were inspired by horror of the Clavel family. And here was he, the last of the name, bearing her insensible figure under the Clavel coat of arms and into the old home where the Clavels had lived for centuries.

Health Hints

Having consulted William Muldoon, Eugene Sandow, Dr. Woods Hutchinson, Pierpont Morgan, Mayor Gaynor, Dr. William Robinson, Upton Sinclair, and many other well-known authorities on health, we are enabled to present the following rules, these being the latest consensus of opinion:

Eat nothing.
Eat everything you want.
Walk at least ten miles a day.
Do not stir unless you ride in a carriage or some other vehicle.
Don't worry.
It is absolutely necessary that you study yourself. Remember, you are an animal.
Chew food until nothing remains.
Bolt everything. Only in this way will you keep your stomach strong.
Never go on a vacation.
Change is absolutely necessary.
Eschew alcohol and tobacco.
Smoke all you want to, drink everything.
Keep cool.
Perspire profusely.

Successful Appeal

A college graduate, after years of almost unbelievable misfortunes, decided to appeal to a classmate who had been very successful. He sought out the rich banker and was soon escorted into his presence. The banker, impressed by the signs of suffering and misfortune in both the face and clothing of his old associate, said in a shocked manner:

"Goodness, man, what has happened to you?"

The unfortunate one began to tell his story. He passed from one disaster to another. He told of the loss of his wife, of the unfortunate speculation that had left him penniless, of broken health, of the death of his only son, and of his future search for employment. As the tale unfolded the banker's eyes began to dim with tears. His shoulders shook with sobs. He arose and walked unsteadily to a bell. A porter entered in response to the summons, and the banker said to him harshly:

"James, throw this man out. He is breaking my heart."

The Track of Bird Migration

Some more remarkable "recoveries" have been made by ringed birds, and once again Portugal takes a prominent place. Two terns, first ringed in their nest, one in Rosshire and one in Renfrewshire, have been reported this autumn, the first 15 miles south of Oporto, the other near Aveiro in Portugal.

These "recoveries" in Portugal are becoming so considerable that it may soon be possible to track out a regular line of migration along the coast and across Spain, parts of which perhaps are the best bird paradise in the world. Quite a number of English ornithologists are now engaged in studying these birds and investigating migration.

A Sad Case

The greatest buttonholer in London, on his return from a winter holiday, was telling his acquaintances at his club that he had been occupying a house at Davos, not far from Mr. Labouchere, who, he added, was in a very melancholy state. "I am truly sorry for that," said one of his melancholy hearers. "What is the matter with him?"

"Well," replied the bore, "I was out walking one day, when I saw Labouchere crouching down the lane towards me. The moment he caught sight of me he darted into the fir wood which was close by, and hid behind a tree till I had passed. Oh, very sad, indeed!"

Great London still depends upon its army of cats to handle the rats among the ships that come up the Thames. The port of London estimates it's bill for cats' milk for the current year at $4,000.

THE RED W BRAND

Matrimony Course for Girls

Years ago Sir W. S. Gilbert depicted a school of matrimony for young men. The Jack in search of his Jill "should prentice himself at fourteen and study from morning till e'en." 'Twas purely a matter of skill, which all might attain if they willed.

In Los Angeles, California, there is an evident belief that what is sauce for the gander is equally sauce for the goose. The announcement is made that a course of matrimony has been included in the curriculum of the Gardens Agricultural High School.

According to a despatch to the "New York World," five classes of girls are daily taking advantage of instruction in courtship, matrimony, the care of babies, mother craft and domestic science.

"It is planned," we read, "that boys in Los Angeles shall be permitted to take the course next year, but some doubt is expressed about the need of this. It is regarded that the 'female of the species' will be so adept in the matter of courtship and matrimony by the end of the year that she will have little difficulty in imparting her knowledge to the less deadly male."

"The girls are taught how to deport themselves during courtship, and instructed in household management, house duties, housekeeping accounts, dressmaking, millinery, and even in such practical matters as how plumbers are supposed to do their work and how much they should be paid."

A Legal Distinction

A long-winded, prosy counsellor was arguing a technical case recently before one of the judges of the supreme court. He had drifted along in such a desultory way that it was hard to keep track of what he was trying to present, and the judge had just vented a very suggestive yawn.

"I sincerely trust that I am not trespassing unduly on the time of this court," said the lawyer, with a suspicion of sarcasm in his voice.

"There is some difference," the judge quietly observed, "between trespassing on time, and encroaching on eternity."

The Best Way is to Laugh

Trouble comes to all of us, but they come least heavily to those who meet them with a good humor and fight them down.

The best way to drive dull care away is with a laugh, for it hates merriment, and vanishes in the sunshine of a smile.

If you are worried from overwork, take a rest, read, walk, and try to forget your cares.

If you are gloomy and sad, seek the society of people who are not, and let them charm your sombre mood away.

The worst misfortune that can befall a man is to surrender himself to a morbid brooding over his cares.

The Professor's Calculation

A professor of McGill, Montreal, who has greatly endeared himself to the students on account of his kind-heartedness, has one particular failing—that of absent-mindedness.

He visited his married nephew the other day and had listened to the young wife's praise of her first born. The gentleman felt that he must say something to give the impression that he was interested.

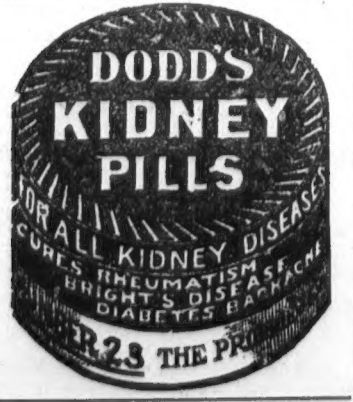

"Can the dear little fellow walk?" he inquired quietly.

"Walk," the mother cried indignantly. "Why, he has been walking for five months."

"Dear me!" the professor exclaimed, lapsing again into abstraction, "what a long way he must have got."

With Some Reason

"The only thing I find to say against you is that your washing bill is far too extravagant. Last week you had six blouses in the wash. Why, Jane, my own daughter never sends more than two." "Ah, that may be, mum," replied Jane, "but I 'ave to! Your daughter's sweetheart is a bank clerk, while my young man is a chimney-sweep. It makes a difference, mum."

CONVENTION OF FORESTRY ASSOCIATION A SUCCESS

Great Interest is Taken in the Thirteenth Annual Convention Held at Ottawa—Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier Address the Gathering

Ottawa, Ont.—There were fully 500 delegates in the city from all parts of Canada to attend the 13th annual convention of the Canadian Forestry Association, which was opened by Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mr. Borden said he felt it both a pleasure and honor to welcome the delegates to the convention to Ottawa on behalf of the Dominion Government. Mr. Borden called the attention of the audience to the fact that, in some countries agricultural land is surveyed and a report made telling what each district is suitable for.

Various kinds of soil are classified as suitable for growing certain crops. Unfortunately, he said, Canada is showing a great deal of discrimination in soil of the forests. Forest land is cleared that should be reserved and vice versa.

The Premier complimented the Association on the educational and valuable work it was doing. The Government welcomed any suggestion from the Association that will lead to the preservation of the forests and stop the tendency to prodigality and waste.

In conclusion Mr. Borden assured the convention that the Government appreciates fully what the Association is doing and promised co-operation in the work.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he cordially welcomed the delegates to the city and felt glad that he could agree with Mr. Borden on one thing at least. This was in his attitude toward the Forestry Association.

"It has taken Canada a long time to realize that the forests were the most important assets of the country. We must reserve what nature has intended should be reserved."

George E. Chown, of Kingston, in his presidential address, reviewed the work of the year and the advances in the work of conservation. He made a vigorous plea for an aggressive policy. He said that the Association had aroused public sentiment and must now bring that opinion to bear in securing a forward movement. The things for which the Association should work are especially:

(1) The taking of forestry services, both Dominion and Provincial, out of politics, making way for technically trained men.

(2) A permanent forestry policy and especially a progressive policy with regard to the treatment of forestry reserves.

(3) Some efficient manner of guarding against forest fires.

Mr. Chown stated that he was pleased to know that in the same city, at the same time, the Railway Commission was meeting with a view to putting through legislation to appoint fire wardens along the lines of railway in order to protect the forests. Less talk and more action and more necessary to get the Dominion and Provincial Governments to do something to save the forests.

He was pleased to know that the Prime Minister was willing to bring the outside forestry Civil Service under the Civil Service Act, but he thought that the Association should have in its employ a trained forester to give advice when it was necessary.

Archdeacon Robert J. Renison, of Moose Jaw, said the Forestry Department had been sending out as fire rangers men who did not know the difference between a frying pan and a paddle. He was not opposed to university students as fire rangers but he was pleading for the cause of the Indian.

"The time has come," he said, "for the white man to get right with the Indians. We have in the Northland hundreds and hundreds of Indians whom I consider an asset to the country. I hope the Dominion and the Provinces will use the Indian in his natural environment. He is a good Canadian and would make a good official, not only as a fire ranger, but as a game warden."

Mr. R. P. Campbell, Dominion Superintendent of Forestry, agreed with Archdeacon Renison with reference to the use of intelligent Indians for the conservation of forest areas.

Mr. Campbell said that at the north of Lake Winnipeg, arrangements had already been made to employ the Indians as fire rangers and that their use would probably be extended.

In regard to college students as fire rangers, Mr. Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, said that on the whole they had not given poor service. An educated man of 22 was better for the purpose than an unintelligent lumberjack. The Crown lands department intended the exclusion of students so long as they were not otherwise qualified, but they intended to show no favor to any special class of man.

If forests are to be protected from fires then the appointment of fire rangers must be taken away from the realms of political favoritism.

This is the opinion of the majority of the delegates as expressed at the afternoon session.

"So long as politicians appoint fire rangers, there always will be forest fires," said Professor James Macoun, of the Geological Survey, in the course of a discussion on the report of fire legislation submitted by Dr. B. E. Fernow, of the Faculty of Forestry, in the University of Toronto.

"At the present it seems wholly impossible to get efficient fire rangers, owing to political reasons," corroborated Mr. Clifford Pinchot, president of the American Conservation Association. These statements were received with great applause.

Several other speakers censured the present system that allows inexperienced college students to act as fire rangers.

Mr. E. B. Rochester, of the E. B. Eddy Co. severely criticized the efforts of the Forestry Branch of the Government. He claimed that fifty per cent. of the students sent out as fire rangers were positively useless for the work. He advised engaging competent lumbermen and experienced woodsmen. Indians, he said, like a good many white men, could not be relied upon.

The Hon. Sydney Fisher, ex-Minister of Agriculture, said that the late government had legislated according to the advice submitted by the Forestry Association at the convention held in Quebec. Railway companies are now held responsible for fires near the railroads and made to pay, up to $5,000 damages, if an effort is made to extinguish the fires and more than this if no effort is made to prevent a fire from spreading.

He explained that the railway commission had power to enact regulations and rules for the railways to observe affecting the protection of forests from fires.

Mr. Clifford Pinchot said that it was primarily essential that, as soon as word of a forest fire was received it should be easy to get to the fire quickly. The whole secret of the fire-fighting policy, he said, was to get men to get to the fire quickly to put it out.

Other speakers were William Power, M.P., Hon. W. A. Charlton, Wm. Pearce, of Calgary; E. H. Hall, secretary of the Association for the protection of the Adirondacks and others.

THREE YEARS AS A SPY

Prominent London Lawyer Believed to Have been Entrapped by Belgian

London, Eng.—There is a rising tide of anger throughout England over the sentence of three and a half years' confinement in the fortress passed by the German Imperial Court at Leipzig upon Bertrand Stewart, a prominent London lawyer, on a charge of espionage.

The feeling aroused has reached such a height that there is a possibility the incident will prove the breaking point of Anglo-German hostilities. The fact cannot be overlooked that the newspapers representing both great political parties of Great Britain are clamoring for government action in Stewart's behalf.

Questions will be put in the House as soon as the parliament meets unless something should be done by the government in the meantime.

British feeling has been inflamed about the affair because the trial took place mostly in secret. The only witness against Stewart was a Belgian who is reputed to be a professional spy and is known to have served several terms in prison. The cry here is that the Belgian entrapped Stewart for the purpose of getting paid for turning informant.

Stewart's professional standing and family connections are of the best.

Ireland Not to Have Fiscal Autonomy

London.—John McKinnon Robertson, member of parliament and of the government, addressing an Irish meeting in London added an interesting contribution to the anxiously debated question whether, under home rule, Ireland would control the customs and excise. Mr. Robertson said that to give Ireland complete and absolute fiscal autonomy would be tantamount to separating her from the empire. There was no hope, he declared, of carrying the home rule on such a footing as this, and he trusted that the home rulers would realize that fiscal autonomy was out of practical politics.

The Times differs with the Daily Chronicle's forecast of the home rule bill which said that the Irish parliament would have full control of the customs and the excise.

The Times declares that the Imperial parliament will retain control of the customs.

Connaught Cables Welcome to King
Ottawa, Ont.—The following cable was sent to King George by the Duke of Connaught:

"The Government and people of Canada humbly desire to offer their heartfelt congratulations upon your Majesty's home-coming and they rejoice in believing that series of stately and splendid pageants which have marked your Majesty's progress through India testify to that spirit of affectionate loyalty which animates people of Canada and is shared in equal measure by our fellow subjects in these far off lands, from which, through the blessing of God, your Majesty have safely returned."

BONSPIEL ATTRACTIONS

Alice Lloyd and Forbes-Robertson at The Walker Theatre, Winnipeg, During Bonspiel

Bonspiel visitors to Winnipeg will find much to amuse and entertain them during the Annual Curling Contests in that city this season. For instance, Manager C. P. Walker, has provided most extraordinarily inviting theatrical fare for the patrons of his handsome and modern playhouse, the Walker, which has only been open to the public five years, and which, as it is of concrete, steel and ultra-modern fire-proof construction will be Canada's finest and foremost theatre for many years to come.

Mr. Walker, in accordance with his policy to play only the best attractions and stars, has booked for the edification of the mid-winter holiday merry-makers and his regular patrons Alice Lloyd, the greatest English singing comedienne in the musical comedy, "Little Miss Fix-It," and that famous English stellar actor, Forbes-Robertson in his wonderful play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

FORBES-ROBERTSON

who appears in "THE PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK."

Forbes-Robertson's engagement at the theatre is for the entire week of February 12th, beginning on that date. This most intellectual of actors on the English-speaking stage will then make his first appearance in Winnipeg and the Canadian West, and he will present a broadly human play, dealing with the affairs of ordinary men and women, but a play of such compelling force, that the public will not let Mr. Robertson give it up. Mr. Robertson's role is that of a mysterious stranger who influences all with whom he comes in contact for good. Playgoers may be assured that they will not only be uplifted but entertained by Forbes-Robertson and his fine company.

URUGUAY TO SEND EXHIBIT

American Dry-Farming Expert Conducting Demonstration There

Lethbridge, Alta.—Consul General Jose Richling, representative of the government of Uruguay to the United States, has arranged for the sending of a delegation of Uruguayan farming experts and a large exhibit of the products of his country to the International Dry-Farming Congress and Exposition here Oct. 21-26. The delegation will include several ladies of note who will attend the Congress of Farm Women in which movement Uruguay is greatly interested.

Wilbur Ball, a graduate of the Utah Agricultural College, who has been employed by the Uruguayan government to conduct demonstrations in dry-farming in that country, sailed from New York last week, accompanied by W. B. Cole, a Colorado expert, who will have charge of the field and demonstration farm work there.

Port Nelson Likely Bay Line Terminus

Ottawa, Ont.—It is understood that as the result of the survey made at Port Nelson and Fort Churchill during the past summer and fall the Government has practically decided that Port Nelson will be the Bay terminus of the Hudson Bay Road.

The reports of the tidal and hydrograph surveys conducted with the greatest care indicate that both marine and land conditions at Port Nelson favor its selection as a safe and accessible harbor, while the topographical surveys favor the territory via the southern route as compared with the route to Port Churchill.

In anticipation of the selection of either port as the terminus of the road, land speculators have been busy for some time buying up lands in the projected townships.

C.N.R. WILL OPEN 60 NEW TOWNS

List of New Towns Which Will Soon be Placed on the Map
Winnipeg, Man.—Altogether the Canadian Northern will open sixty new towns this year along the company's lines in the Prairie Provinces. Provision has been made to place an additional twenty on the market. It is expected they will be held over until 1913.

The majority of the new towns will be situated on branch lines now being constructed in Saskatchewan, though there will be at least half a dozen located on the main line, including a divisional point west of Edmonton.

The following list shows where the new towns will be located. Six on Goose Lake extension, between Kindersley and the junction of the Vegreville-Calgary line. One of the new town sites of this district will be made a divisional point. The Jack Fish line, running from North Battleford to Athabasca Landing will welcome the appearance of four new town sites. Probably the best of these will be one which will be known as Mervin. Three will be placed on the St. Albans-North Battleford branch. On the Thunderhill branch, running from Swan River to Humboldt, arrangements will be made to put three additional town sites on the market. Six will be located on the main line west of Edmonton. Among these will be Tollerton, which has been decided upon as the first divisional point west of Edmonton. It is located on the banks of the MacLeod River. Six will be located on the Dunvegan line, which runs between Edmonton and Peace River. On the Brazeau coal branch, running from the Vegreville-Calgary branch to Rocky Mountain House, it has been decided to open up six other new towns. Two of them will be designated Sylvan Lake and Rocky Mountain House. Two will be established on the Edmonton-Calgary line. Five will be located on the Calgary-Lethbridge line: two on the main line running to the International boundary; four on the Maryfield-Lethbridge extension, west of Radville; five on the line between Henry and Swift Current. These will include the new town of Gravelburg, which is expected to be the best the company has to offer in the West this year. It takes its name from Father Gravelle. Two on the Camrose-Strathcona branch; two on the Goose Lake extension; two on the Melfort-Humboldt branch, and two on the Delisle extension.

FALL WHEAT GROWING

Interesting Information Submitted to the Commons' Agricultural Committee

Ottawa, Ont.—The agricultural committee of the House of Commons took up the inquiry of the growing of fall wheat in the west and evidence was given and statements were made which would go to show that the day may come when fall wheat may almost entirely displace the spring throughout the whole of the prairie provinces.

L. H. Newman, secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, was the principal witness. He pointed out that fall wheat now was grown very successfully in Southern Alberta and Northern Manitoba. He was enthusiastic over results in Dauphin and Swan River districts. He believed that the area of fall wheat growing would rapidly increase. Newman's estimate was corroborated by W. D. Staples, of Macdonald, who said that he believed fall wheat could be grown as successfully on bald prairie as in Northern Manitoba.

Doctors to Strike on Insurance

London.—The ministerial organ, The Daily News, admits the reality of the crisis which has overtaken the working of the National Insurance Act, owing to the attitude of the doctors.

The next fortnight will decide whether there will be a strike against the scheme and all parties are looking forward with great interest to the meeting of the British Medical Association at the Guild Hall on Feb. 21.

About 31,000 doctors out of 37,000 have signed a declaration saying that they will work under the act only at terms to be approved by the association.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VII.—FIRST QUARTER, FOR FEB. 18, 1912.

Text of the Lesson, Luke III, 1-17, Memory Verses, 16, 17—Golden Text Matt. III, 2—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The first two verses of our lesson introduce us to some men who were, in a certain sense, great men, but only one was truly great. Caesar, Pilate, Herod and Philip were great in the eyes of the world of politics as earth rulers. Annas and Calaphas as high priests were great in the eyes of religious people, but only of John could it be truly said "great in the eyes of the Lord," "not a greater prophet than John the Baptist" (Luke I, 15; vii, 28). He was also filled with the Holy Spirit from his birth, so he must have spent his time in the wilderness with God in a very special way.

We read seven times in Num. iv, that the priests began their ministry when about thirty years of age, so we judge from verse 23 of our lesson chapter that John, as well as Jesus, began their public ministry at that age. He knew when to come forth and begin, because "the word of God came unto him." So the word of the Lord came unto him in whose spirit and power he went forth (I Kings xvii, 2, 8). From Gen. xv, I where we read that "the word of the Lord came unto Abraham," how many times we find the statement and how much it means of definite commission from heaven. How very strong it is in Ezek. I, 3, where we read, "The word of the Lord came expressly unto Ezekiel, the priest." Unless we each for ourselves hear His voice in His word His book is not to us what it might be. The gospel may be said to begin and end with "repentance and remission of sins" (verse 3; I, 77; xiv, 47). The gospel that does not proclaim the remission of sins by the blood of Jesus is not the gospel of the grace of God, but a perversion of the gospel of Christ (Gal. I, 6, 7). Every truly penitent soul, having received the Lord Jesus Christ and thus having been made a child of God and received the forgiveness of sins, is commissioned to say to every unsaved person, "Through this man is proclaimed unto you the forgiveness of sins" (I John II, 12; John I, 12; Rev. xii, 16; Acts xii, 38, 39).

The herald of the Messiah was predicted in Isa. xl, 3; Mal. III, 1, but in both places in connection with the great blessing upon Israel John said of himself that he was neither the Messiah nor Elijah, but just the voice of which Isaiah had spoken to prepare the way of the Lord (John I, 19, 23). Both John and Jesus Christ suffered at the hands of those who should have received them (Matt. xv, 11-13), so the kingdom that was at hand and would have come if the Messiah had been received did not come and still awaits the return of the King to bless Israel, and not till then shall all flesh see the salvation of God. It is after the Lord shall have comforted Jerusalem, when He shall be reigning in power, that all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God (Isa. xlix, 6; III, 7-10). This is the age of worldwide evangelization that from all nations the elect of the church shall be gathered and prepared to administer with Him as joint heirs the affairs of the kingdom. In every age true repentance must be followed by fruits meet by repentance. We must prove to people by our works the reality of our faith. God reads the heart, but people read the illustrations in our lives. The illustrations in some books are so poor that they do not help the story. It is even so in our lives. "Not every one that saith * * * but he that doeth," our Lord said. And elsewhere it is written that "faith without works is dead" (Matt. vii, 21; Jas. II, 20). We are delivered from the wrath to come without any works of ours, but wholly through Jesus, the Son of God, raised from the dead (I Thess. I, 10). Yet, as a tree is known by its fruit, so the believer should be known by his actions. If we are new creatures to Christ we should walk in the newness of life, manifesting the fruit of the Spirit (Rom. vi, 22; Gal. v, 22). The question of verses 10, 12 and 14, "What shall we do?" remind us of the question in John vi, 28, "What shall we do that we might work the works of God?" Our Lord replied, "This is the work of God, that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent." Thus only can salvation come to any one. Being saved, what then? "Do justly, love mercy and humble thyself to walk with God" (Mic. vi, 8, margin). Show singleness by love to others as opportunity offers and as God gives the ability. To the people, the politicians, the soldiers, He gave a separate answer suited to their circumstances. We are not to look around and consider what others are doing, but each for himself ask "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Concerning our looking at or thinking of what others are doing, we need the Lord's word to Peter, "What is that to thee? Follow me!" or the word in I Thess. iv, 11, "Study to be quiet and to do your own business and to work with your own hands." As the people wondered at John it was his delight to point them away from himself to the one whom he came to announce, of whom he spoke as "one mightier than I, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose" (verse 16), and of whom he a little later cried, "Behold, the Lamb of God" (John I, 29, 30). Instead of water baptism He would baptize with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

Mixed Farming

HARVY WALTON

On Friday Feb. 16th Mr. Hiltz gave a most interesting lecture on mixed farming.

Agriculture is the oldest and most independent occupation. It is the foundation of all other callings. If the farmers all stopped growing grain and raising cattle but just enough for themselves the people at large would starve. If the farmers of the Bowden district were to stop growing and producing grain and beef cattle etc. Bowden would be bankrupt.

There are two kinds of farming. Exclusive grain growing; the farmer grows all grain and sells it at the elevator. The other kind the farmer raises stock and gives the grain to his stock, this is called mixed farming. All experts claim that mixed farming is the safest. During a bad year the grain growers crop is destroyed he has no money to pay his debts. The other farmer feeds his grain to his cattle and has money to pay his debts with.

In the mixed farming the primary object is to get manure for the land.

In the Maritime Provinces the people use artificial fertilizers, such as crushed bone, guano and superphosphate. Some people crop the land till it will grow nothing. It is ruination and a criminal offence to the country. In Nova Scotia the country is surrounded by large dykes. These dykes were built to keep out the tides which rise as high as sixty feet in the Bay of Fundy. In the dykes are locks which close as the tide comes in. In the spring they open the gates and when the tide comes in the water rises over the land, when the tide is out they open the gates. All over the land where the water was is covered with soft mud, this mud is very rich. In the Maritime Provinces they grow fruit to a great extent. The cattle are kept on pastures for about two years, in this time it is well manured.

The children of today are to be the people of the future therefore they should be well educated.

Mixed Farming

LOIS RUTLEDGE

Agriculture is the most important of all the worlds callings. It is the oldest and most independent it is the foundation of a countrys prosperity. A farmer must have wisdom and knowledge to be a successful farmer, as has been often repeated, "Knowledge is Power."

In farming there are two distinct systems: mixed farming and exclusive grain growing. Mixed farming has been found the safest and most profitable. By this system the grain grown on a farm is fed to stock on the place. By so doing they have manure to fertilize their land. The safety of this system can be easily recognized from this past year. If the crops fail the farmer has something else to turn to. In this country where the grain crop is so uncertain it is easy to see the advantage of mixed farming.

Exclusive grain growing is widely used by the Canadian and in good seasons it pays as well if not better than the former system. The grain is sold to the elevators and artificial fertilizers have to be bought. As the farmers greatest consideration is in keeping the soil rich. To procure a fertilizer is an important thing. There are several different kinds;— the fertilizer made from crushed bones, guano, from the Guano islands in South America, and super phosphate from phosphore rock. In the Maritime provinces water overflows the land and is kept their by means of gates or batteaux. These gates can be opened or shut just as the farmer pleases when this water is let off a coating of fine mud is left evenly distributed over the land. This mud is very rich so that the orchards and farms are; "A thing of beauty is a joy forever." The soil would be very poor and unproductive if it was not for this water. Although the Eastern provinces have beautiful farms it was the Western part took the $1000 prize at Madison Square, N. Y. This prize was won by Mr. Seager Williams of Saskatoon.

The west is proud of her productions and energetic farmers, and the farmers reflect back her pride.

Mixed Farming

CATHERINE CAMPBELL

It is the farmers who feed and clothe the world; therefore it is very important for the parents to see that the rising generation get as vast a knowledge of profitable farming as possible because "Knowledge is Power." Farming is the oldest and most independent calling. Authorities recognize the fact that farming is the key of all other callings. The Farming is the foundation of the future prosperity of the nation at large.

Some farmers depend on exclusive grain growing; that is keep only the horses required for to do the plowing etc. and only cows to supply butter and milk so as to be able to sell grain. This farm impoverishes the land and in a poor year when their grain is not in selling condition they have no money for taxes, implements etc. It is criminal and ruinous to neglect the fertilization of the land. These farmers sell their grain to the elevators who sell it to the milling companies at a large profit. These companies make flour and sell to the general merchants who sell the flour at a costly price back to the farmers. These farmers are in general a hindrance to the success of their country at large.

There are other farmers who go in for mixed farming. Such farmers are a help to the community. They keep an abundance of horses, beef cattle, milch cows, hogs and poultry and use as much of their hay and grain as possible and as a result have always horses, fat beef, hogs, eggs, butter and milk or cream for sale. The primary object in farming is the use for the manure as a fertilizer.

When their land gets impoverished and run down farmers are forced to buy a commercial or artificial fertilizer which consists of crushed bones, superphosphate and guano, from Guano islands in South America. Practically speaking a country cannot develop till speculation is done away with.

In the Maritime Provinces there were at one time all poor farmers because of dependency on exclusive grain growing. Mixed farming is the adopted system now in the eastern provinces. They grow fruit in the east to a large extent; which is impossible in the west.

In Nova Scotia the water from the Bay of Fundy is kept on the land by locks or Batteaux. In the spring this water when drained off leaves a rich mud which is very good for orchards, hay etc. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

In the east the cattle are all pastured on their owners land; the pasture being changed every two years or so, the land is thoroughly fertilized.

Many people are daily coming into the Prairie Provinces and we hope the new system will be duly adopted.

In the world's prize for the best grain Mr. Seager Williams of Sask.

WHAT FOLLOWED A CUT

A Magistrate's Wonderful Experience With Zam-Buk.

Mr. J. E. Arnault, a Justice of the Peace, and stationmaster at Wellington, on the Prince Edward Island Ry., has had a wonderful proof of the healing power of Zam-Buk. He says: "Four years ago, I had an accident. I slipped in the station and fell on a freight truck, sustaining a bad cut on the front of my leg. I thought this would heal, but instead of doing so it developed into a bad ulcer and later into a form of eczema which spread very rapidly and also started on the other leg. Both legs became so swollen and sore that I could only go about my work by having them bandaged. My doctor said I must stop work and lay up."

"After six months of this trouble I consulted another doctor, but with no better result. I tried all the salves, liniments and lotions I heard of, but instead of getting better I got worse. "This was my condition when I got my first box of Zam-Buk. Greatly to my delight that first box gave me relief. I continued to apply it to the sores, and day by day they got better. I could see that at last I had got hold of something that would cure me, and in the end it did."

"It is now over a year since Zam-Buk worked a cure in my case, and there has been no return of the eczema or any trace of it."

Such is the nature of the great cures which Zam-Buk is daily effecting. Purely herbal in composition, this great balm is a sure cure for all skin diseases, cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poisoning, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, cuts, burns and bruises. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

MRS. GEO. BUTLER TELLS WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS DID FOR HER.

She was tired, nervous and run down, and suffered from pains in the back.—Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Paquetville, Gloucester Co., N. B. (Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering woman's best friend was never better demonstrated than in the case of Mrs. Geo. Butler, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

"My trouble was brought on by hard work," Mrs. Butler tells her friends. "For four years I suffered from pain in the back. I was always tired and nervous. My head ached and I had dark circles under my eyes, which were also puffed and swollen."

"I was in a generally run-down condition and feeling very much discouraged when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I can only say I found relief at once."

The mainspring of woman's health is the kidneys. If the kidneys are right the blood will be pure. Pure blood is absolutely essential to good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right.

The rates heretofore granted conventions held in the northwest and west have been one and one quarter or one and one half fare for a round trip, and this reduction to a single fare from all points in Canada may be followed by the trans-continental roads in the United States, assuring a very large attendance at the Congress and Exposition next October.

Dates of sales of tickets and other details will be announced later on by the Canadian Pacific, and it is anticipated that the American roads will shortly make known their rates.

Forestry in Europe

The productive forest area in 1608 on the Grand Duchy of Hesse in Europe amounted to 182,263 ac. In general the standing timber is composed of sixty nine per cent hardwood and thirty one per cent coniferous forest. The fir ranks first among the coniferous species. The total yield of lumber in 1608 was 4,575,000 cubic feet. Refuse in so far as it is not suitable for lighter lumber, such as laths or for pulp, is used for firewood. The expenditures for salaries, forest cultivation and road building amounted to approximately $754,000 and the total gross income, from lumber and firewood was $1,161,931. The capital represented by the forests, $52,665,354, brought interest at 2.21 per cent. Where intensive forestry of this kind is practised, forest fires are unknown. Sufficient money spent on Canadian Forest Reserves would greatly reduce the fire danger, maintain an adequate lumber supply for the country and become a source of revenue to the Government.

Stock Shipping Regulations

dant be killed or injured while going through with the stock or returning.

Shippers of live stock are the people most directly interested in these questions and the nature of the decision that will be rendered on them will depend very much on the manner in which the shippers represent their side of the controversy.

All that has been done to improve shipping conditions thus far has been done by the stock breeders and stock growers associations and Government Officials. It is time that the shippers speak for themselves. Had they done so long ago much more would doubtless have been accomplished.
